Poetry.

THE WORLD'S MASQUE.

BY MISS JEWSBURY.

"I am not old—I am not old"—
'Twas thus I heard one say.
"And there's a spirit in my heart
That keeps old age away ;
'Tis love—that like an Angel guards
Life's fountain from decay."

I muse upon my fellow men ;
To me they are a book,
And oft my fancy rightly spells
Their thoughts—by word and look :
Ay, many a proud and weary wight
That searching ill would brook.

For this, I seek the haunts of mirth,
And those that mirth haunts least ;
None fear me—for they deem me one
With whom life's love hath ceased ;
They slip their visors, and I see
The spectre at the feast.

When others praise the lute and song,
The singer and his spell,
I gaze upon each listener's face
That can deep histories tell,
Seeking the one, for whom, alas !
The singer sang so well.

I follow in the track of fame,
The path her crowned ones tread,
Others behold their glittering eyes,
But I their brows instead ;
And the momentary look that asks
For rest ; is with the dead !

And when I see a placid face
That speaks the heart asleep,
While others on its beauty dwell,
I—turn aside and weep ;
For all that, ere a year be past,
May there plough furrows deep.

The man—the man of guile and care,
Whose heart hath long been dry ;
A fountain whence no waters flow,
But weeds instead wave high ;
Others may hear his courtly wit,
I but his smothered sigh !

Oh ! fellow men ! how often grief
Is on me for your sakes !
And yet I would not love ye less—
For the sorrow that loves wakes
Makes my heart prayerful for ye all,
And happy while it aches !"

ROUND MY OWN PRETTY ROSE.

BY T. H. BAYLY, ESQ.

Round my own pretty Rose I have hover'd all day,
I have seen its sweet leaves, one by one, fall away ;
They are gone ! they are gone ! but I go not with them—
No, I linger to weep o'er the desolate stem.
They say if I rove to the south, I shall meet
With hundreds of roses more fair and more sweet ;
But my heart, when I'm tempted to wander' replies,
Here my first love, my last love, my only love lies.

When I sprang from the home where my plumage was nurst,
'Twas my own pretty rose that attracted me first ;
We have lov'd all the summer—and now that the chill
Of the winter comes o'er us, I'm true to thee still ;
When the last leaf is wither'd, and falls to the earth,
The false one to southerly climes may fly forth,
But Truth cannot fly from his sorrow—he dies
Where his first love—his last love—his only love lies.

FLOWERS.—From Mr. HOWITT'S Book of the Seasons, just published in London, we make the following extract, concerning these last visitants of Spring :—

"Of all the minor creation of God, flowers seem to be most completely the effusions of his love of beauty, grace and joy. Of all the natural objects which surround us, they are the least connected with our absolute necessities. Vegetation might proceed, the earth might be clothed with a sober green ; all the processes of fructification might be perfected without being attended by the glory with which the flower is crowned ; but beauty and fragrance are poured abroad over the earth in blossoms of endless varieties, radiant evidences of the boundless benevolence of the Deity. They are made solely to gladden the heart of man, for a light to his eyes, for a living inspiration of grace to his spirit, for a perpetual admiration. And accordingly they seize on our affections the first moment that we behold them.—With what eagerness do very infants grasp at flowers! As they become older they would live for ever amongst them. They bound about in the flowery meadows like young fawns—they gather all they come near—they collect heaps—they sit among them, and sort them, and sing over them, and caress them, till they perish in their grasp. We see them coming wearily into the towns and villages with their pinafores full, and with posies half as large as themselves. We trace them in shady lanes, in the grass of far off fields by the treasures they have gathered and have left behind lured on by others still brighter.—As they grow up to maturity, they assume in their eyes, new characters and beauties. Then they are strewn around them, the poetry of the earth. * *

"The ancient Greeks, whose souls pre-eminently sympathized with the spirit of grace and beauty in every thing, were enthusiastic in their love, and lavish in their use of flowers. They scattered them in the porticos of their temples—they were offered on the altars of some of their deities—they were strewed in the conqueror's path—on all occasions of festivity and rejoicing they were strewn about, or worn in garlands. The guests at banquets were crowned with them—the bowl was wreathed with them and wherever they wish to throw beauty, and express glandness, like sunshine, they cast flowers.

"Something of the same spirit seems to have prevailed amongst the Hebrews. 'Let us fill ourselves,' says Solomon, 'with costly wine and ointments ; and let no flower of the spring pass by us.—Let us crown ourselves with rose buds before they be withered.'—But amongst that solemn and poetical people they were commonly regarded in another and higher sense—they were the favorite symbols of the beauty and the fragility of life. Man is compared to the flower of the field, and it is added, 'the grass withereth, the flower fadeth.' * * *

"In our confined notions, we are often led to wonder why beauty, and flowers, and fruit, should be scattered so exuberantly where there are none to enjoy them ; but the works of the Almighty are not as our works are. To Omnipotence creation costs no effort, but to the desolate and sorrowful, how immense is the happiness thus prepared in the wild races ! [illegible] recollect the exultation of [illegible] a flower in the torrid [illegible] a magnificent lilly [illegible] banks of a river, filled the air around with its delicious fragrance [illegible] observes, had been [illegible] animals of the district, [illegible] fended even by its beauty. [illegible] ing mention of the influence [illegible] upon his mind in a time of [illegible] despondency, in the heart of the same savage continent, by Mungo Park, is familiar to every one."

THE MOTHER.—Heaven has imprinted on the mother's face, something which claims kindred with the skies.—The waking, watchful eye, which keeps its tireless vigils over her slumbering child—the tender look, and the angel smile are objects which neither the pencil nor chissel can reach, and which poetry fails in attempting to pourtray. Upon the eulogies of the most eloquent tongue we should find Tekel written.—It is in the sympathies of the heart alone, where lives the lovely picture, and the eye may look abroad in vain for its counterpart in the works of art!

A mother's love! O what joy is in the sound—entwined around our very souls in our earliest years—we cling to it in manhood and almost worship at its shrine in old age. To use the language of a celebrated writer, we say, that he who can approach the cradle of sleeping innocence, without thinking of such is the kingdom of Heaven—or view the fond parent hang over its beauties, and half retain her breath lest she break its slumbers—without a veneration beyond all common feeling—is to be avoided in every intercourse in life, and is fit only for the shadow of darkness and the solitude of the desert."

BYRON.—In looking over Moore's Byron one cannot fail to be impressed with the truth of the remark, that "the records of genius are full of strange contradictions."—His letters "show him to have been the child of impulses on small, though the man of decision on great occasions." The hero who volunteered his life for Italy, and gave it to Greece, could not enter a carriage or mount a horse without trembling. The philosopher who moralized in "Childe Harold," was stung to the quick because his bookseller had neglected to send him over some Macassar oil for his hair : the decided critic on the works of others, was distrustful and undecided on his own ; the misanthropist, who scorned the world, writhed under the sneer of the fool ; the aristocrat by birth and prejudice spent his life in advocating the cause of freedom and the people ; the generous enthusiast who gave away his thousands in charity, bought a saving box to fill with pence ?

LARGE STRAWBERRIES.—There were exhibited by Judge Buel, at the horticultural show, on Tuesday fifty strawberries of uncommon size and beauty.—On weighing them, the committee found that forty-seven berries, divested of their stems, weighing a pound—three averaging a little more than an ounce ; and it is said that every berry exceeded four inches in circumference. These strawberries were of the kind called Methven, or Methven Castle, from the place where the variety originated, and are of the color and flavor of the common field variety.—Albany Argus.

FOREIGN NEWS.

NEW-YORK, June 29.

LATEST FROM EUROPE.

The Ship Meridian, Capt. Willey, arrived yesterday from Liverpool, whence she sailed on the 27th of May, and we have papers to the day of her sailing.

There is no news of importance either from England or the Continent.—The following are extracts from the papers.

POLAND.

The Morning Chronicle of 24th May says that the report of an important victory having been obtained by the Poles, is far from being confirmed. The Warsaw Journals, say vaguely, that Gen'l Skrzynecki had obtained an important advantage.

Field Marshal Diebitsch's official reports to the close of April, had been received and published at St. Petersburgh. They are in no wise of a discouraging nature for the Russians.

During the time that General Dwernecki was in Volhynia, insurrections had broken out in different places, which threatened to interrupt the communications, when lately a body of about 5000 insurgents was surprised by some pulks of Cossacks, and dispersed. The Chiefs of the insurrection fell on this occasion into the hands of the Russians, by which the insurrection was stifled at its commencement.

A Hamburgh paper of May 20, states that the Austrian government has refused to allow General Dwernicki to return to Warsaw, and has made arrangements for his reception at Laybach, and his officers are to be distributed in Moravia, and his soldiers to be sent to Transylvania. Dwernecki has protested against the conduct of the Austrian Government, and sent copies of his Protest to the French and English Ambassadors, and hopes, through their intervention, to obtain some mitigation of the harshness with which he is threatened.

Gen. Rudiger having learned that Dwernicki's corps had laid down their arms, left his position at Koloduo, and proceeded by way of Poczajaw to Radzwillow, where he arrived on the 5th of May, with his corps, which is to march to the Bug, to co-operate with the detachment of Gen. Rosen who now commands in the second line, and has to secure the country between Bzesc, Laboure, and Woldimiez.

The London Globe says: "We have seen letters from Berlin of the 14th, which state, that the Poles confess that they have but faint hopes of success against the Russians."

The Prussian State Gazette to the 12th of May, inclusive had been received in London. The Prussian Government has ordered a Military Cordon along all its frontiers, from Memel to Silesia, to guard against the introduction of the Cholera; and regulations have been laid down with respect to the intercourse with the countries on the other side of the Line. No news from Warsaw later than the 12th appears in the State Gazette.

BELGIUM.—We stated yesterday that the National Congress assembled on 17th May—the sitting on the 18th opened at 1 o'clock—129 members being present.

In the report of the proceedings on this day, and on 13th, we find little which is calculated to throw much light on the probable destinies of Belgium.—The Commissioners at London had not been officially treated with, and the confidential conversations were to be communicated if at all, to a secret committee of the Assembly. The determination of Prince Leopold, it is supposed, would be communicated by Lord Ponsonby, as above mentioned. But his arrival at Brussels is not announced at the latest dates from that place, which is the 21st. The Morning Herald has the following article on the affairs of Belgium.

The arrival of Lord Ponsonby is awaited at Brussels, with intense anxiety. Should he be the bearer of Prince Leopold's acceptance, accompanied with reasonable terms, not a shadow of doubt remains of his Royal Highness being elected, not by a majority only, but by almost [illegible] acclamation.

The opposition, that is to say, the Republicans and ultra Catholics, tried their strength at the election of the officers of Congress. By a singular coincidence the [illegible] on the [illegible] were divided [illegible] 32 to 23. This is [illegible] force.

Rotterdam papers of the 21st, state that no fresh disturbances had broken out at Antwerp, and parties appeared disposed to wait the result of negociations pending between the different Powers respecting the situation of Holland and Belgium. It is again said that Austria at least is decidedly adverse to the separation of Belgium from Holland, on the ground [illegible] would inevitably lead to the junction of Belgium with France, and thus give [illegible] an undue weight in the balance of power.

The disturbances in La Vendee do not seem to be viewed as of much importance. There are no assemblages, it is said, and soldiers may be seen [illegible] numbers in the province without falling in with Chouans. The disorders are clearly of the nature of the Irish Whiteboyism.

France and Portugal.—The Journal des Debats states, that a French frigate of 60 guns had entered the Tagus, and that another was hourly expected.—On the arrival of the whole squadron twenty-four hours were allowed the "tyrant of Portugal," or the "monster of a new species," as M. Sebastiani called him, to consider whether he would grant ample reparation for the outrages inflicted on French subjects. If the answer was in the negative, the French Admiral had orders to act immediately. "The national honor," says the Journal des Debats, "shall be avenged."

France and Morocco.—In consequence of the intimation made by the Consul of France to the Emperor of Morocco that the invasion which he had ordered his troops to make of the province of Telemsen, dependent on the kingdom of Algiers, might endanger the relations of good neighborhood existing between France and Morocco, the Emperor has recalled his nephew Muley Bey, and ordered him to quit Telemsen. The Emperor is going to employ these troops to restore tranquillity, which is seriously interrupted in several parts of his dominions. The expedition to Telemsen has caused a loss of 700,000 or 800,000 francs to the Treasury of Morocco, which is an exorbitant sum for that empire; and the expedition has been to occasion the troubles which now afflict it.

From the Constitutionnel of May 20.

It cannot be denied that the different Ministers since July have not entered frankly into the principles of our Revolution, and have little confirmed them. The troubles have alarmed the country—each party has attributed them to the Ministers: but the men who see in the revolution only a continued restoration, increase and profit by these disputes.—We look, however, with confidence to the decision of events. We cannot predict the result of the elections, but the Chamber will necessarily adopt, as the basis of its deliberations, the Charter of 1830. The Peerage will be placed in harmony with our institutions—public education will be taken out of the Imperial mould—a law on the responsibility of Ministers—the examination of foreign affairs as far as they concern the honor of the country,—these will be the business of the National Representatives, and the results of their labors on these points must conform to the general opinion. It cannot be otherwise than that the initiative of the Chamber of Deputies must, in important matters, give it great constituting power, which will serve to complete our institutions. This is inevitable. We will watch therefore, but wait with confidence.

INSURRECTION IN TURKEY.

The state of Turkey, says the London Atlas, attracts the attention of all Europe. The insurrection there rages with such fury, that the Grand Vizier has been compelled to lay down his arms to the rebels of Bitoglia. It is said that Russia is at the bottom of this movement, and that as Mahmoud missed the opportunity of interfering for the Poles, Nicholas seized it to prevent the possibility of his future interference. This manœuvre, however, may cause another Russia-Turkish war.

BY MAILS.

ST. LOUIS, June 2.

THE INDIANS.

By the Winnebago, which arrived here yesterday from the Upper Mississippi, we learn that Gen. Gaines who proceeded some eight or ten days since with a detachment regular troops from Jefferson Barracks, against a band of the Sacs and the Fox tribes of Indians, has called upon the Governor of Illinois for a detachment of 700 militia to proceed immediately to the point of expected hostilities. It is reported that the Indians met the troops with a war dance and expressed a determination not to leave the ground unless by force of arms.

NEW-ORLEANS, June 13.

Notwithstanding there is more shipping in the port this moment, than there has been at the same season, at any former period, yet business continues very backward. There being about eighty thousand bales of cotton alone lying about the streets for annoyance, without any proper storage, either in ware-houses or lots for the whole of it.

There are one hundred and sixty vessels in port, (one hundred and thirty of which are American,) and they are quite all taken up.

The business of New-Orleans has so prodigiously extended itself within a few years, and is still augmenting that we shall require immense additional tonnage to transport our raw produce.

We are informed that the U. States will furnish two companies of regular soldiers, to be stationed in the city, at the disposal of the Governor provided the city will provide quarters for them.

WASHINGTON, June 24.

AWFUL CONFLAGRATION.

Extract of a letter to the editors of the National Intelligencer, from Raleigh, N. C. June 21.

The pride and glory of our city is no more! The State House is a heap of ashes. The beautiful structure—its fine decorations—its Library—and above all, the Chef d'œuvre of Canova, the Statue of Washington, are destroyed by the devouring element which so recently devastated our sister town! Never has my eye beheld a more awful spectacle than the blaze, streaming from the numerous windows of that vast edifice, and a broad column of condensed flame, rising many yards above the cupola. The eye would have been fascinated with the beauty of the scene, which the pen so feebly describes, had not the heart trembled at the possible result to the surrounding houses.

It may be remembered that there was an alarm of fire in the roof of the State House last winter, when the Legislature was in session, which was speedily extinguished by the exertions of two or three active individuals. To prevent similar danger, a resolution was passed by the Legislature to cover the roof with zinc. This was nearly completed, but has accidentally proved the destruction of one of the handsomest edifices in the United States.

This morning, about seven o'clock, an alarm was given that the State House was on fire. This appalling report proved fatally true, and in a short time was beyond human control. It is supposed to have originated from the carelessness of the persons employed to solder the zinc, they having, by some accident not yet ascertained, set fire to the roof, which spread so rapidly, that it was impossible to extinguish it.

To the shingles having been removed to put on the zinc, we probably owe the safety of the town, especially the N. E. part of it, which included the Episcopal Church, State Bank, Eagle Hotel, and many valuable private dwellings.

The beautiful grove of which this fine buildings was the central ornament, stands unscathed, and it is probable that the luxuriant foliage of the trees checked the evil from spreading to the surrounding buildings. The offices of the Departments, (which are in detached buildings,) and the official archives are also saved; and I have the happiness to add, that neither life, limb, nor property of any of our citizens is injured. By the exertion of two individuals, the fine painting of General Washington was also saved.

BALTIMORE, June 27.

The execution of Markely took place in the suburbs of Frederick on Friday last. When under the gallows and after the conclusion of the religious exercises usual on such occasions, he was solemnly asked by the Rev. Mr. Schaeffer to divulge his guilt; but he protested his innocence of the murder of Newey and his family, and his entire ignorance of the crime. Again when he was placeed on the drop and the rope adjusted, he was urged to confess his guilt, but he still reiterated his innocence. The sentence of the law was then enforced, and in a short time life was extinct.

NEW-YORK, June 29.

FROM PORT AU PRINCE.—We are indebted to Capt. Doty, of the Bunker Hill, for the Port au Prince Telegraph of the 12th June containing the correspondence between the Consul-General of France and the Government, in relation to the existing difficulties between the two countries.

By a letter of the 2d June, the Consul General M. Mollien, requires to know from the President whether he is willing to ratify two treaties signed at Paris on the 2d April, and states his inability to alter their conditions in any way. He asks an answer to forward it to France by M. Pichon in the frigate La Junon. The Secretary General in reply, on the 4th June, says the President has determined not to ratify them, and that the motives of his refusal will be communicated to the French government by despatches transmitted through the medium of M. Pichon.

The Consul General on the same day answers that as the motives of this refusal cannot in any way be admitted by France, M. Pichon will not take charge of the dispatches, and that the President will please to find another opportunity to forward them.

He concludes by recommending to the protection of the President such Frenchmen as business compel to remain at Port au Prince, although he had advised them to depart. Upon this the President has issued a proclamation dated from the National Palace, on the 12th June, in which he states the causes of the existing disagreement. It appears he sent an agent to France for the purpose of concluding a treaty with the government which should remove the difficulties between the two countries, and that this agent exceeded his powers and concluded two treaties, with conditions he was not authorised to subscribe to, and which the President therefore refused to ratify.

"Haitiens," the proclamation goes on to say, "the Consul General of France has declared, that in consequence of this refusal to ratify, relations of friendship between France and Haiti have ceased. What reflections does not this strange declaration give rise to? The fate of Haiti depends then, on a convention signed in France, by a Haitien Envoy, however defective and irregular the treaty may be. The two treaties in question then, are treaties to be imposed on us * *." The proclamation concludes with an appeal to the civil and military functionaries and to the people, to do their duty to their country, in the emergency which has arisen.

NEWPORT,

SATURDAY MORNING, JULY 2.

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Of this State, adjourned on Saturday afternoon last, to meet again at South-Kingstown on the last Monday of October next. In addition to their proceedings, (published in our last) the following was transacted on the last day of the session:—

A bill passed, in amendment of an act relative to Public Schools, authorizing the Gen. Treasurer to distribute the funds to the respective towns in proportion to their population under 15 years of age, instead of 16 years, as in the former law.

The bill reducing the militia fines from $7 to $2, was passed.

An act for the temporary relief of insolvent debtors, was passed. It gives a liberation from jail, and stay of proceedings, to all petitioners who have taken the poor debtor's oath, and are detained in jail by the advance of money, and allows all other petitions who may hereafter be committed to jail, to go at large on bond, provided they take the oath, and money is left to detain them.

An act imposing the necessity of a license on all venders of lottery tickets, passed.

An act passed, taxing Banks on the increase of their capital, 2 1-2 per cent.

An act passed, permitting the Manufacturers Bank in Pawtucket to remove to Providence.

The act passed in June, 1828, authorising the State of Massachusetts, or any company incorporated by that State, to construct a rail road from Providence to Massachusetts line, was repealed.

A committee consisting of Messrs Hazard, Pratt, Rhodes, Haile, and E. R. Potter, were appointed to draft a new insolvent law for the State, and to report at the next session.

The communication of Hon. Mr. Robbins, relative to the north boundary line of the State, was referred to B. Hazard, Speaker, Rhodes, E. R. Potter and Haile.

Messrs. Simmons, Potter, and Greene, were appointed a committee to report on the expediency of reducing the salary and compensation of the Secretary of State, and the Clerks of the Courts.

ANNIVERSARY OF INDEPENDENCE.

The Committee of Arrangements for the celebration of the 55th Anniversary of American Independence, respectfully announce to the Inhabitants of Newport and its vicinity, that the Procession will be formed in Pelham street, on Monday, July 4th, at half past 9 o'clock A. M. in the following order:—

Artillery Company, Col. Boss.
Newport Indep'nt Volunteers, Capt. Lyon.
Chief Marshal.
The Committee of Arrangements.
His Excellency the Governor, preceeded by the High Sheriff.
His Honor the Lieut. Governor.
Officiating Clergyman & Orator of the day.
Clergymen of the Town and vicinity.
Town-Council, Treasurer, Clerk & Sergeant
Commissioners of the Asylum.
School Committee.
Members of the Cincinnati.
Senators and Members of Congress.
Foreign Consuls and Vice-Consuls.
Members of the State Legislature.
Judges and Clerks of the State Courts.
Surviving Officers and Soldiers of the Revolution.
Officers of the U. S. Army and Navy.
Major General and suite.
Militia Officers, General, Regimental and Staff.
Officers of the Customs, and Post-Office Departments.
Firewards and Fire Companies.
Marine Society.
Strangers and Citizens.

The Procession will move from Pelham-street, up Thames-street, to the 2d Baptist Meeting-House, and in returning, the usual route will be pursued, and the Procession be dismissed on Washington Square.

The performances of the day, will consist of the following exercises:—Music; Prayer by the Rev. Mr. Choules, the reading of the Declaration of Independence by H. Y. Cranston, Esq.; Ode; Prayer by the Rev Mr. Beecher; Oration by Mr. G. W. Robbins; Ode; Benediction.

The Music on this occasion will be under the direction of Col. Benj. Marsh, jun.—At 9 o'clock the house will be opened for the admission of ladies, who are respectfully requested to occupy the front seats in the gallery, and the side pews below.

Salutes will be fired by the Artillery Company, at sunrise, at 12 o'clock, and at sunset; at which time, and during the marching of the procession, the bells of the several Churches and State-House, will be rung.

Citizens of the neighboring towns, and Strangers, are invited to join the celebration; and it is requested that all obstructions which can impede the movements of the procession, may be removed.

THE LATE CORRESPONDENCE.

The Washington Telegraph, of 22d ult. contains a correspondence be[tween] Mr. Eaton, late Secretary of W[ar and] Mr. Ingham, late Secretary of the T[reasu]ry, growing out of the alledged ca[use of] the recent dissolution of the Cabi[net. It] consists of five letters, of which the [sub]stance is appended:—

1st—Mr. Eaton, on the evening [of the] 17th, addressed a note to Mr. I[ngham] saying he had studied to disregar[d the] slanders published in the Telegr[aph in] relation to his family, awaiting the [dis]covery of some responsible autho[r; but] having been asserted in the paper [of that] day that the families of the Sec. o[f the] Treasury, and of the Navy, and [the] Attorney Gen., refused to associate [with] Mrs. E.; Mr. Eaton says,—"Th[e pub]lication appears in a paper which [pro]fesses to be friendly to you and [to be set] forth under your immediate e[ye. I] desire to know of you, whether [you] you sanction, or will disavow it. [The] relation we have sustained toward[s each] other authorizes me to demand a[n im]mediate answer."

2d—Mr. Ingham, the next day, [replies] that he does not perceive whether the publication, or the fact, which [he is] called on to sanction or disavow. [If the] former, he terms it an absurd de[mand;] if the latter, he refers Mr. E. for [autho]rity to a Philadelphia paper of [...] which is believed quite as frien[dly to] Mr. E. as the Telegraph is to h[im.] He closes by saying—"You mus[t be] a little deranged, to imagine th[at any] blustering of yours could induce [me to] disavow what all the inhabitants [of this] city know, and perhaps half the p[eople] of the United States believe to be [true."]

3d—Mr. Eaton immediately r[eplies] with an expression of extreme [surprise] that "a frank and candid enquiry [should] received "an impudent and [...] answer"—and in terms of repro[ach de]mands "satisfaction" for the inju[ry that] had been done him; with a remar[k that] Mr. I.'s answer must determine w[hether] he is "so far entitled to the name [and] character of a gentleman as to be [able to] act like one."

4th—On the 20th Mr. Ingham [...] answer that company had prevent[ed his] replying to Mr E.'s note of Sat[urday] at the time it was received, and [...] that on the next day the brother [in law] of Mr. E. had intruded into his [...] with threats of personal violence [...] then refers to Mr. Eaton's conduct [and the] part he is made to play before the [Ameri]can people, and closes by saying [...] am not to be intimidated by threa[ts, or] provoked by abuse to any act in[consis]tent with the pity and contempt [which] your condition and conduct inspire[."]

5th, and last—Under the same [date] Mr. Eaton rejoins with an allegat[ion that] Mr. I. is "quite brave enough [to do] a mean action, but too great a cow[ard to] repair it"—says he heeds not h[is con]tempt and despises his pity—char[ges] such "contemptible fellows" as [...] the creation of such rumours a[s have] been made to operate against him, [and] states that similar causes ought [to re]quire Mr. I. to reserve his pity [for his] own case. He adds in conclusion—[I ask] no more; here our correspon[dence] closes. Nothing more will be re[ceived] short of an acceptance of my de[mand of] Saturday, and nothing more be s[aid by] me until face to face we meet. [It is] not in my nature to brook your [insults,] nor will they be submitted to."

The Washington Telegraph of Sa[turday] last, contains the sequel to the corre[spond]ence between Mr. Eaton and Mr. In[gham.] First among the letters referred to, [is one] from Mr. Ingham dated June 21st, a[d]dressed to the President of the U[nited States,] which he charges Mr. Eaton, and [...] his friends—Col. Campbell, Major [...] Dr. Randolph and Major Lewis—ha[ving made] an attempt to waylay him on his ro[ute from] the public offices, with, as he believ[es,] the purpose to assassinate him. Th[at be]ing apprised of this, he had taken suc[h pre]cautionary measures as defeated the [...] He was about to leave the city, but th[ought] it proper that the President should b[e in]formed of these facts, both in relation [to the] Chief Magistrate of the District, a[nd as] Head of the Government, to which [the par]ties named are attached.—This lette[r, it ap]pears, did not reach the Presiden[t until] several hours after Mr. Ingham ha[d left] Washington.

Immediately on receiving the lette[r, the] President addressed a note to the [...] accused of being Gen. Eaton's accom[plices,] inclosing the allegation against the[m, to] which they each promptly returned a [posi]tive and unqualified denial of any des[ign or] attempt in co-operation with Gen. E[aton] to attack Mr. Ingham.

We learn, that the General-Treasu[rer is] now ready to pay to the several To[wns] their proportion of the School money, [under] the new apportionment.

Treasury Department.—The Na[tional] Intelligencer of Saturday last, says:—

Mr. Ingham ceased to act as Sec[re]tary of the Treasury on Monday [last,] and leaves town to-day, we underst[and,] for his residence in Pennsylvania.

Mr. Asbury Dickens, Chief Clerk [of] the Treasury Department, will, it [is] expected, fill the office of Secretar[y] until the arrival of Mr. McLane fro[m] England.

POINTMENT.—The President of
. S. has appointed R. B. TANEY, Esq.
timore, Attorney-General of the U. S.
ceed J. M. Berrien, Esq. whose re-ion of that office was finally accepted
22d ult.—Mr. Taney has accepted appointment.

National Intelligencer of Saturday, ks :—" Mr. Taney was a distinguishderalist of the old school, and bears an able character individually, and in his
ion. We incline to think that, aler, the President could not have more unexceptionable selection from his political supporters."

PRESIDENT of the U. S. has relin-d his contemplated tour to the South mmer. In reply to a letter of invitaom the citizens of Wilmington, he —" This tour I had contemplated with re last winter, as promising a useful tion from the cares of my office; but that a proper regard for the public ts compels me to forego it."

CORRESPONDENCE.—The Phil. National Gazette of Saturday last, says,—" A call is made for the publication of a very emphatic correspondence between Gen. Eaton and Mr. Berrien—also, for very poignant letters which passed between Gen. Jackson and Mr. Southard, when Secretary of the Navy."

The Washington Telegraph thus closes his comments on Mr. Eaton's letters :—" But has the President removed every discontented feeling from his councils? He has not. He is yet surrounded by an irresponsible cabal, who use the malign influence as the means of controlling the power and the patronage of Government."

NAVAL.—The U. S. Frigate Potomac, Capt. Downes, anchored in the bite of Craney Island on Saturday last.

U. S. SHIP FALMOUTH.—This beautiful sloop of war has hauled out from the Navy Yard, and is now lying in the North River, New-York whence she will sail, the first fair wind, for the Pacific, on a three years cruise.

The U. S. sloop of war Lexington, Capt. Duncan, bound to Brazil, was at anchor in Hampton Roads on Saturday last.

Removal.—We understand that Benjamin Anthony, Esq. has been appointed Postmaster at Fall-River, in place of Mr. James G. Bowen, removed.

NAVY.—The New-York Enquirer censures the late Secretary of the Navy for having so many vessels arrive at, and depart from Norfolk; and for having so many seamen convened there, and discharged there. It contends that vessels could be fitted out cheaper at New-York.

PIRATES.—Collinet and Gadett, convicted of murder and piracy on board the brig Orbit of New-York, were to be executed yesterday forenoon, in the prison yard, Leverett-stree, Boston.

ITEMS OF NEWS.

We regret to state that the venerable James Monroe, late President of the United States, is dangerously ill, at his residence in New-York.

The Pensacola Gazette states that the Small Pox is raging with great violence at Mobile.

The wheat harvest in Virginia is said to be very promising.

The citizens of Fayetteville observed the 24th ult. as a day of fasting, humiliation and prayer.

We understand that twelve hundred dollars has been collected in the town of Lowell for the benefit of the Fayetteville sufferers.

The whole amount collected in Boston is about ten thousand dollars.

A little girl in Philadelphia lately went to bed with a pin in her mouth, which slipped into her throat at night, and she awoke in great agony. Dr. Chapman dislodged it with a spoon, but the child was several times near going into convulsions.

The brig Criterion will leave Norfolk in the course of next week, with 100 colored emigrants for the Colony of Liberia.

REMARKS.—The mean average of this Month has been nearly 3 1-2 deg. warmer than June. 1830; nearly 4 deg. warmer than June 1829, the coldest in last 12 years; about 1 1-4 deg. warmer than the mean average of June, for same period; and 2 1-2 deg. colder than June 1825, the warmest in last 12 years.

More than half the Month has been cloudy, foggy or rainy, and vegetation has progressed very rapidly through the Month.

Our farmers have begun to put the scythe to one of the most luxuriant crops of grass we have ever seen; our Indian Corn, and other vegetable productions are very promising.—Of tree fruits, they have very generally failed; we hear of no peaches, plums, apricots, &c. any where in our vicinity; of apples and pears, the crop will be very small.

J. L. CLARK's

EXCHANGE,—168 BROADWAY, Three Doors below Maiden Lane.

THE above Establishment has recently gone into operation. Frequently experiencing the many inconveniences that strangers are subject to in transacting their business in this place, often in want of the convenience of a writing apparatus, and the means of ascertaining the different locations, &c. which they may be in pursuit of about the City and Environs; I have taken the liberty to give the public a general invitation to consider themselves at home with me, while they remain in the city. All the principal city papers, together with most of the New-England, and the principal Southern and Western; and a fair assortment of foreign papers are conveniently arranged for the accommodation of the public. Any negociations, or any business that may fall in the line of a Stock and Exchange Broker, will be attended to with fidelity, punctuality and despatch.

Any Commissions with which my friends may favor me, will be complied with to the full letter of their instructions. Please call on

J. L. CLARK,

Dr. Kittredge's VEGETABLE PULMONIC DROPS.

MR. DAM has recently received from one of the first families in this City, Dr Benjamin's Kittredge's Receipe for preparing his PULMONIC DROPS. As they were so well known in his practice, further comment is esteemed unnecessary. The reasons assigned for presenting this to him, were, that it might be continued for the benefit of the community. Several of the connexions of this family have been cured in a few weeks by using these invaluable Drops. They could not obtain the recipe from him on any other condition, than not to show it out of the family as long as he lived. Mr. Dam confidently offers these Drops to the public as the best article for all pulmonary complaints which has ever been produced —price 50 cents per bottle. For sale, wholesale and retail, by the Proprietor, 29 Prince-street, Boston, LEADER DAM, who keeps constantly for sale the following articles of his own manufacture;—Cream of Amber, for removing Pimples and Freckles; Balm of Egypt, for Coughs, Asthma, Consumptions and Hooping Cough; Patten's Pile Electuary and Ointment, an infallible remedy for the Piles; Anderson's Eye water, a certain cure for sore eyes; Galen's Ointment, and Galen's Restorative Elixir, a positive cure for all scrofulous complaints; Galen's Anti-Bilious Pills, the best article in the country to sweeten the breath, and free the stomach from bile; German Rheumatic Drops and Galen's Restorative Elixir, the only articles yet known that would effectually cure the Rheumatism; Dr. Randall's Tooth Powder, the best article to preserve the teeth from decaying, & for whitening the teeth ever discovered; German Tooth-Ache Drops the first article that was ever tried with success in destroying the nerve of a tooth, and immediately stopping the tooth from aching; Dr. Mitchell's Corn Plaster, that has cured more corns than all other articles used; Dr. Mitchell's Chilblain Salve, that was never known to fail, when applied according to the directions on the box; Dr. Galen's Anti-Dyspeptic Pills which have cured more persons of that complaint, than all others ever offered to the public; Dr. Kittredge's Jaundice Bitters, a most excellent medicine for that complaint, now is the time to use it; Galen's Restorative Elixir, for weakness and general debility, has cured hundreds—it is one of the best medicines to cleanse the blood of humors that has ever been tried, and is as good for many other complaints, it used freely as others recommend for them. Kittredge's Ointment for the Itch, and for many other purposes, (see the label) is considered one of the most valuable articles in use; Dr. Jackson's Cordial—one of the best articles for Females in a weak and debilitated state of health that has ever been tried—it is used for the same purposes as the Aromatic Pills, and costs only one third as much—it is also used with great success in all cases of Strangury and Gravel; Dr. Jackson's remedy for Worms has already convinced the public of its superior excellence over any thing known for that complaint, as it destroys even pin worms and the tape worm; Dr. River's powders for the Liver complaint, is the only article known to have effectually cured this worst of all complaints; Prussian Wash for Warts on the hands—it entirely removes them without pain.

⁂ For sale, wholesale and retail, in Newport, by Dr. R. R HAZARD, near the State-House—also for sale, by James Taylor, S. W. Vinson, and Dr A. F. Moore, Thames-Street, Newport.—J. Hedley, Portsmouth.—J. F. Simmons, Bristol—P. R. Reed & Co. Fall River—and by druggists in New-Bedford, Taunton, &c.

DR. RIVERS' VEGETABLE POWDERS, IS A POSITIVE CURE FOR THE LIVER COMPLAINT.

MR. DAM, grateful for the patronage received from a liberal and enlightened public on all his articles of Patent Medicines that he has issued, having a desire to continue his usefulness in the healing art, through the medium of the best of the faculty in other countries as well as this, is now induced to offer them the truly astonishing Vegetable Powders for the LIVER COMPLAINT, prepared from a private receipe from one of the first Physicians in the city of London. Mr. Dam obtained this receipe from a gentleman of New-York, who went to London expressly to obtain help; and this Physician cured him in three weeks after he arrived there, although his case was pronounced incurable by most of the faculty in New-York; he purchased the recipe, and in four weeks after he returned to New-York, he cured his nephew of the same complaint, who was given over by all the physicians who had attended him—his side had grown out as thick as a man's hand. This statement no doubt will be familiar to many who applied for the receipe, but would not pay the price required by the fortunate holder. Mr. Dam is now the only person who has a right to make and vend this medicine in this country, and every label will be signed by him to prevent imposition. He can with confidence recommend a trial of this invaluable medicine, as thousands are afflicted with this disease in all parts of the country. The Proprietor has been induced to offer this Medicine very low, in order to give every person an opportunity to test its efficacy. For sale, wholesale and retail at No. 29, Prince-Street, Boston, by LEADER DAM. Price 50 Cents per Box.

☞ For Sale, wholesale and retail, in Newport, by Dr. R. R. HAZARD, near the State-House. Also, by James Taylor, S. W. Vinson and A. P. Moore, in Thames Street.—J. Hedley, in Portsmouth; J. F. Simmons, Bristol; P. R. Reed & Co. Fall-River—and by Druggists in Taunton, New-Bedford, &c. &c.
